

Bombay Artist Cuts Short Bradford Visit

Amongst visiting international artists who have taken up short term residencies in Art Mill studios has been the Bombay painter Jaideep Mehrotra. Jaideep had planned to stay in Bradford for three months with a view to establishing a long-term relationship with the Treadwell Gallery before returning to India to get married. However, he had underestimated just how much he was going to miss his "intended" and after spending a good deal of his budget on 'phone calls home, he decided to cut short his visit. He did manage to complete one painting "Dead End", currently on show at the Art Mill. We reproduce the happy couple, "honeymooning" in Amsterdam.

